Doomed flight

A man walks amid the debris at the crash site of a passenger plane near the village of Hrabove, Ukraine, on Thursday. Ukraine said a passenger plane carrying 298 people was shot down Thursday as it flew over the country. Both the government and the pro-Russia separatists fighting in the region denied any responsibility for downing the plane. See story, page 16. DMITRY LOVETSKY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

LeafSource™

LeafSource™
Nature's Health Enhancer

STOPPED CUSTOMER'S PAIN IN DAYS

WWW.LEAFSOURCE.COM

"IT WORKS! I'LL TAKE ANOTHER TWO BOTTLES PLEASE!"

This coming from a customer who had tried every other natural remedy under the sun in the past few years to take away her pain. Ian, the owner of the health food store couldn't believe his ears. He had finally found the perfect product to stop his customer's miseries.

This is what every owner of a health food store dreams about, a natural product that receives so many outstanding testimonials on such a wide variety of health issues. "I had recommended a new product called LeafSource™, which we recently started carrying. We have had tremendous success with this product, and almost everyone we have recommended it to over the last few months has come back and thanked us over and over again" said Ian.

Before trying LeafSource™, the woman had complained about her ongoing joint pain and was at her wit's end. Although she had experienced some relief through the numerous natural remedies she had tried over the years, the pain would never fully go away. "She returned to my store, in tears, less than one week after buying LeafSource™. I didn't know what to think of this woman standing in front of me crying, until she told me that within a few days of taking LeafSource™ her pain started to disappear and within a week it was completely gone-as if it was never there." Ian goes on, "This coming from a woman whose painful joints and ongoing sciatica were so bad just one week earlier, that the pain was unbearable but now has completely subsided."

By now you are probably wondering what is LeafSource™ and why is it so effective? LeafSource™ is a 100% natural product derived from a proprietary organic mineral composite with over ten years of university research.

LeafSource™ helps regulate the inflammatory process and the body's ability to repair itself. The vast majority (70 - 80%) of the population over the age of 50 have joint problems - often called osteoarthritis.

This is due to the natural (or unnatural) wear and tear on joint tissue that develops through the aging process. With joint inflammation, movement is limited and pain can be constant. LeafSource™ seems to have the ability to help people get their mobility back. Millions of people seek treatment for their joint and inflammation problems by resorting to expensive, toxic prescription drugs (i.e. NSAIDs) with multiple side effects. These range from nausea vomiting to serious intestinal disorders (bleeding, gas, pain) and kidney and liver failure. Isn't that too large a price to pay for a pain relief!? LeafSource™ is a alternative to these destructive anti-inflammatory drugs that cause more problems than they solve. There are absolutely no side effects and it doesn't interfere with any other medications. Controlled experiments and observations have revealed LeafSource™ is a potent anti-inflammatory that has been shown to bring a reduction to inflammation and pain within a few days. People notice great results in terms of more energy and less pain by taking anywhere from 2 to 6 capsules/day. Typical maintenance is usually 1 capsule twice daily.

This product gets results! LeafSource™ is scientifically validated through more than 10 years of research at 4 universities, including the Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Mercer University.

Aside from its incredible anti-inflammatory and pain reducing ability, it has also been shown to improve the performance of your daily nutrition and vitamin programs. It helps increase the absorption of vital nutrients, which in turn helps these nutrients work better. Better absorption = better results!

It's almost as if they have become supercharged! LeafSource™ has also been shown to help enhance energy levels, improve intestinal health, strengthen hair, skin and nails and improve immune function. To see someone go from intense pain to a new lease on life within a week is truly incredible. Imagine being able to move freely without pain. Who wouldn't want to get out of bed in the morning with more energy?

It's amazing how much of this stuff we take for granted, until it's gone! Ian adds, "I often recommend that LeafSource™ be taken with other natural joint products in order to help them work better and provide even faster relief. One of the things I hear most often from people who have tried LeafSource™ is they just plain feel better, have more energy and less pain. We're so confident, we guarantee LeafSource™ 100%! That alone should be enough to try this incredible product."

LeafSource™ is a 100% organic, sea bed deposit filled with a multitude of nutrients leftover from the Cretaceous Period. 100 Million years in the making and backed by more than a decade of research, these vital nutients are the science behind LeafSource™, which has been shown to help with:

Reduced Joint Pain • Immune Modulator • Improved Hair, Skin & Nails Detoxification • Enhance your Digestive System • Prevent Bone Loss • Increased Energy and much more!

Alvin and Kathryn Liknes never got their adventure

Presumed dead. Friend says couple planned on moving to Mexico

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Alvin and Kathryn Liknes were keen for a change of pace, a downsizing of sorts.

They'd worked hard all their lives providing for six kids and then a dozen grandchildren. Their faces would light up the moment anyone inquired about the youngest members of their sprawling family, including five-year-old Nathan O'Brien, the middle son of three belonging to daughter Jennifer and her husband Rod.

"Family was always first for them," said sister-in-law Teena Prevost.

The Likneses' lives weren't always easy. Alvin filed for bankruptcy in 1993 with liabilities outweighing his assets by more than $100,000. Kathryn followed a similar path in 2012, citing "poor money management" as well as heaping loans and unpaid taxes as the reason for her own filing, according to bankruptcy documents.

Still, Alvin remained a respected engineer in his field and had an entrepreneurial spirit. According to online and court records, he'd applied for at least five patents over the years and founded multiple companies. Close family friend Cherri Hodgins envisioned him in a consulting role as he entered his golden years.

"Everyone's got a skeleton or two in their closet, but that does not depict the type of characters that these two were and the successes they had over the years," she said.

Presumed murder victims Alvin and Kathryn Liknes are seen at the wedding of close friend Cherri Hodgins in Canmore last year. Kathryn served as maid of honour. Inset: the couple's grandson, Nathan O'Brien, 5, is also believed to have been killed after staying over at the Likneses' Parkhill home. COURTESY CHERRI HODGINS; INSET: FACEBOOK

Parkhill pair

"You always felt welcome; there was always a bedroom waiting for you."

Friend Cherri Hodgins, on the Parkhill home shared by Alvin and Kathryn Liknes

The Likneses had shared a now-infamous home in Parkhill for 28 years. It became a common spot for gatherings among family and friends, a "home away from home," as Hodgins put it.

But it was time for a change. The couple, whose love was "rock-solid," sold the property in May 2013 for about $700,000 but continued living there while getting their affairs in order. The next chapter in their 35-year partnership was to take them south to a family property in Mazatlan, Mexico.

"They had a vision that all of the family would come and visit them ... and they knew we would all come in the winter," Hodgins said with a laugh.

But things veered off course sometime late on June 29 or early the next morning. Hours later, the Parkhill abode became the epicentre of a sprawling missing-persons case and subsequent murder investigation.

Nathan had stayed over that night too after interacting with guests at an estate sale being hosted by his grandparents.

Police say a violent incident occurred inside the home and the trio did not leave voluntarily. Two weeks later, investigators declared all three murder victims and laid charges against 54-year-old Douglas Garland.

The sudden tragedy sparked shock among family members, with many struggling to envision a future without their loved ones.

"It's really hard; what else can you say?" said Prevost. "Kathy was the glue of (the) family. Period."

Top police brass have said they're confident in the evidence gathered, but there remains lingering shreds of hope among family and close friends that the missing trio will turn up, that the Likneses will see their vision through.

"They were like school kids going on a new adventure," Hodgins said. "They were working on a plan, and I have every confidence that things would have been different down the road.... We're all praying for a miracle."

In memory of Nathan

Cherri Hodgins and other family friends have established the "Superheroes Are Real" trust fund in honour of Nathan O'Brien and his grandparents, Alvin and Kathryn Liknes. The name of the trust is a nod to Nathan's love of superheroes. His mother Jen has said he preferred costumes to regular clothes.

"We felt like we won the lottery.
The home had everything we wanted. All within our budget."

School upkeep approaching a 'critical intersection': CBE chair

Wear and tear. Dozens of facilities slipping into marginal shape

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Dozens of Calgary public schools will stare down "significant deficiencies" in key operational systems and building upkeep in the years ahead, suggests an analysis of provincial ratings.

Metro reviewed the current and projected Renewal Capital Asset Planning Process (RECAPP) ratings for Calgary Board of Education facilities to get a sense of the struggles associated with an infrastructure backlog the organization says stands at roughly $920 million.

RECAPP assessments are carried out by the province on each board-owned building every five years.

The CBE last published its RECAPP ratings in 2012 as part of a 10-year outlook on student accommodation. In that report, the majority of schools were rated "A" for acceptable. Only one site, Bowness High School, was given the lower-tier grade of "M" for marginal.

Bowness has since been approved for a career-and-technology-focused facelift that could cost up to $20 million.

But other sites appear headed toward a similar state, as the 10-year project RECAPP ratings indicate 72 CBE sites will soon be rated marginal. By its own definitions, a marginal school "meets minimum requirements; has significant deficiencies. May have high operating/maintenance costs."

When informed of the findings, Joy Bowen-Eyre, CBE trustee chair, said her organization is coming to a "critical intersection" on capital infrastructure.

"We can't afford to lose 72 schools — we need the space," she said, later adding, "It's not just about getting the new schools; it's about modernizing and making sure the maintenance is up to par for the other schools."

A senior CBE official did confirm to Metro earlier this year that one aging school, Viscount Bennett Centre, could be forced to close in the near future due to maintenance issues. Parents and union officials alike have said the primary reasoning for the pending shutdown is because mould was discovered in three classrooms. However, the board's administration has dodged repeated questioning about it.

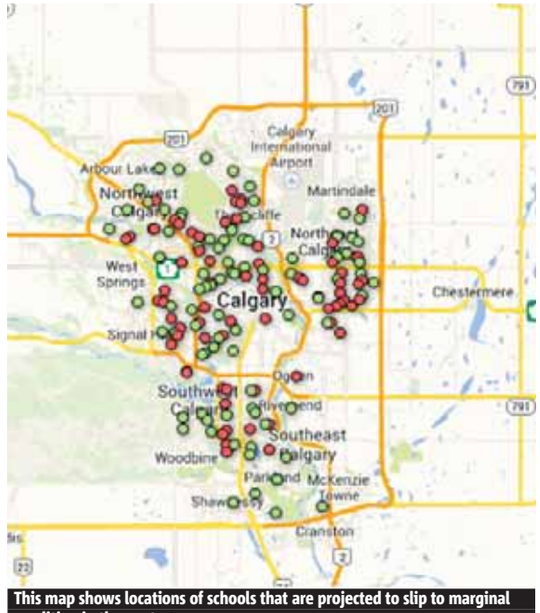
Viscount's current RECAPP rating is acceptable, but provincial officials have said it's due for another look in 2015, providing it's still open.

Bowen-Eyre said the provincial funding for infrastructure is the primary problem. Provincewide, Alberta Education plans to supply boards with $100 million for upkeep this fall, a jump of more than $22 million over 2013-14 levels but only $1.6 million more than was offered in 2012-13.

In 2013, the CBE pulled in $14.6 million for infrastructure renewal, a drop of 23 per cent over the year prior. In the meantime, board officials estimated they needed $23 million just to keep pace.

Bob Anderson, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees local, which represents 700 custodial workers, said he believes similar issues will pop up at many other buildings erected 50 or more years ago. Anderson said the roofing material used in that construction era requires a great deal of maintenance and his members are stretched too thin as it is.

"We haven't found anything that causing us to be alarmed or take any action yet, but the fear is this stuff is out there," Anderson said. "A billion dollars in deferred maintenance — it has to be there."



This map shows locations of schools that are projected to slip to marginal condition in the next 10 years. JESSICA SMITH-CROSS/METRO

Volunteer searches of Airdrie field were 'asking for trouble'

Triple-murder investigation. Search and rescue squads rely on hours of training, rigid command chain

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Search-and-rescue team members and a city defence lawyer are warning that anything less than careful handling of evidence could prove devastating to a criminal case in court.

In addition, the heads of both Foothills Search and Rescue and Calgary Search and Rescue — organizations called in by police and rural RCMP to aid with mass searches — say their members go through dozens of hours of training before entering the field and follow strict chain-of-command guidelines.

On Tuesday, a group of more than 250 volunteers gathered to comb Airdrie fields for clues in the presumed killings of five-year-old Nathan O'Brien and his grandparents, Alvin and Kathryn Liknes.

Some members carried on with similar efforts Wednesday night as well, despite warnings from police that they were searching "blind" and could disrupt key evidence or tie up resources better used elsewhere.

Balfour Der, a city defence lawyer, said the integrity of evidence is key come time for court proceedings.

"Continuity has to be established, a chain of custody," he said, "and having people who are untrained in how to handle, capture exhibits is asking for trouble."

Simon Bradley, president of Calgary Search and Rescue, said his more than 100 volunteer members are each required to undergo criminal background checks and 60 hours of initial training. When they do hit the field, they wear identifiable gear and are accompanied by uniformed law-enforcement members.

Simon Bradley, president of Calgary Search and Rescue, said his members and those in similar organizations go through evidence-handling training, chain-of-command briefings and are joined by police when canvassing for potential criminal-case evidence. METRO FILE

"If we do discover something, we're able to immediately have an officer attend," he said.

Police did not join in on the Airdrie volunteer searches. Organizers have said there were strict rules in place that only allowed team leaders to carry cellphones, cameras and other recording devices.

Über cool!

Cab app to offer on-demand ice cream Friday only

Representatives behind a controversial luxury-car app are hoping to heat up talk of their tech in Calgary by serving up cool treats.

Über will roll out an on-demand ice-cream service on city streets between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. Friday.

"There's a road ahead in making Über in Calgary an eventual reality," said Jeff Weshler, a general manager with the company. "The thing you can get (Friday) is an ice-cream truck at your doorstep in minutes, but you can't get a ride when you need one."

Residents seeking something cool to eat are required to download the Über app and then use it to hail a truck at a minimum cost of $25, which will net you five pieces of ice cream and some swag. In the past, Über has rolled out its fleet of ice-cream trucks in Toronto, where Weshler is based. He said customers are generally a good mix of business-crowd types and families. Officials concerned with rise of serious dog bites

Alvin Murray, north operations manager for Animal and Bylaw Services, speaks to reporters on Thursday. BRYAN WEISMILLER/METRO

When it comes to serious dog bites, Calgary has eclipsed last year's total in the first six months of 2014.

Up to July 1, bylaw officials have logged 218 severe bites, up from the 2013 total of 198.

Alvin Murray of city Animal and Bylaw Services noted few bites are recorded after the summer "high season," although there's still six weeks left before students head back to classes.

"Is it concerning for us? Absolutely," he said Thursday. "One bite is one too many, especially when they're small children."

In numbers

The number of serious dog bites logged by Calgary's Animal and Bylaw Services department in 2014.

Murray made the comments while speaking about a recent case in which a three-year-old was bit in the face Wednesday by a family friend's mastiff. The child needed medical treatment, and the canine's owner could be fined up to $10,000.

In a separate case, the owner of a Staffordshire bull terrier involved in a fatal attack on a poodle last week has now been charged with Dog Causing Death to Another Animal and two counts of Having Unlicensed Dogs.

In a third case, a city cop fired a single round into a charging pit bull early Thursday when the hulking canine reportedly attacked the officer's partner. The shooting happened outside a home in the 100 block of Dovertree Place S.E., shortly after midnight when authorities were called to an alleged domestic dispute.

Det. Steve Adair made clear the dog wasn't sicced on police, saying it was an "unintentional" attack.

Kitty boom. Calgary shelter adopting out cats due to overcrowding

JEREMY NOLAIS
jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Calgary Humane Society officials hope to see fur fly this weekend — right out their front door.

The organization's shelter has been inundated with dozens more cats in the past week and has now crossed over its kennel capacity.

In response, they launched an emergency adoption event Thursday and planned to carry that on through the weekend.

As of Thursday afternoon, there were 198 cats being housed in 182 holding kennels.

An additional 59 cats were being cared for in 53 adoption kennels.

There were also 40 pet owners awaiting appointments to potentially surrender their furry friends to the society, but those meetings were being booked into early August, Thompson said.

"On the other end of this, we're asking that people be patient with us," she said.

Tabbies up for grabbies

The Humane Society is offering any of its cats over seven months of age for a minimum donation of $25. For more information, head to calgaryhumane.ca/adopt.

Quoted

"We're bottlenecked in adoptions. We're an open-admission facility ... we don't turn anybody away."

Christy Thompson, spokesperson for the Calgary Humane Society, on the current feline overcrowding at the society's shelter.

As much as we want to help, leave it to the pros

IN DEFENCE OF Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

For nearly three weeks, Calgarians have been gripped by the story of the Liknes and O'Brien families.

The sadness, fear and despair the families are feeling has become something we all feel, maybe because Rod and Jen O'Brien are no different than the rest of us. Those fears and that raw emotion have translated into what many people say Calgarians do best: help.

Special ceremonies, poster campaigns, ribbons and green balloons have all helped in some way. The risk now is that by going out and conducting their own searches, the police fear some people are being too helpful.

It can be a confusing message. After all, last year, thousands of people were praised by the police for helping during the flood.

But this situation, sadly, couldn't be more different.

During the floods, we used our manpower and energy to help our friends and neighbours begin to recover. But the professionals were there first. They were there to make sure the power was turned off, they made sure the buildings were stable and they made sure that before we helped, we were safe.

It's amazing that so many people have this urge to help, this altruistic need to help bring whatever closure we can provide to these families. Not everyone has that, but for some reason, Calgarians, who seem to be being tested a lot lately, have it. We're good neighbours and better people. But we are not all police officers.

We don't know how the law works. We might think we do, maybe because of years of watching CSI: Miami or Criminal Minds. But we don't. To understand the law, you have to study for years. We cannot underestimate how the tiniest piece of evidence can change the outcome of a trial. And should that happen, should a mistake be made. No one should have to carry that burden.

The truth is, we don't know how to scan a crime scene because it's a complicated science and we certainly don't know what to do if we stumble upon evidence.

And it's not just about the risk of accidentally tampering with evidence, it's the emotional toll one must endure should they make a potentially horrific discovery. We aren't trained for that either. If these searches result in what so many fear, a normal person, a regular person, shouldn't have to bear witness to it.

Police sign up for that line of duty knowing a lot of things. They know that their jobs are hard, that there are sacrifices and that there are a lot of sad days. But with their jobs come training, support and guidance. We aren't trained for the things that police officers often have to do. And that's a good thing.

By hopefully ceasing their efforts, it's important that these volunteers know that they aren't abandoning those families. They're not saying they're not loved, nor are they saying that they don't care.

What these volunteers have shown the Liknes and O'Brien families is that there is hope. Hope for a miraculous return, hope for love and hope for Nathan, Alvin and Kathryn.

Man dies in hospital.
Second-degree murder charges pending for 2 men

Murder charges are pending against two people after a man assaulted earlier this month died in hospital Tuesday.

The incident occurred July 5 about 3:40 a.m. at a strip mall parking lot along Radcliffe Drive S.E.

Staff Sgt. Colin Chisholm told reporters the victim was kicked, punched and attacked with a weapon that wasn't recovered.

"It was basically a confrontation," Chisholm said Thursday. "The suspects overtook the victim and it was obviously a fatal assault."

Emergency responders found the victim unconscious and rushed him to hospital with life-threatening injuries.

Just before midnight Tuesday, 18-year-old Ayuen Ajak Goot — also known as Devon Goot — died.

The cause of death was determined to be blunt-force trauma.

Homicide count

Goot is Calgary's 19th homicide victim of 2014, which police say is reflective of "multiple, unique" cases.

Authorities believe Goot was targeted by the men they describe as "acquaintances."

However, Chisholm refused to say whether drugs or gang ties were a factor.

On Wednesday night, police arrested and charged an 18-year-old man and a 19-year-old man.

"They were arrested in a vehicle in the community of Dover," Chisholm said.

Second-degree murder charges are pending against both men, who will be formally named once charges have been laid.

Investigators are not looking for any other suspects.

Testing underway at new Tuscany station

Provincial partnership.
Alberta MSI grant covered most of the $123.3-million project

ROBSON FLETCHER

Line testing is underway at the Tuscany C-Train station, which is set to open next month and bring light-rail transit to roughly 35,000 more people in northwest Calgary.

Nestled between the two directions of travel on Crowchild Trail, the station's pedestrian overpasses will also serve as a bridge for the communities of Royal Oak and Rocky Ridge to the north and Tuscany to the south.

"We expect that half of the ridership of the LRT in these communities is going to come from the feeder bus network, and then many people are going to choose to walk to the station," Chris Jordan, manager of strategic planning for Calgary Transit, said Thursday.

About 5,000 people live within a 10-minute walk of the station, said Calgary's director of transportation infrastructure Michael Thompson. Five bus routes will carry passengers to and from the site.

Two park-and-ride lots on either side of the station will provide 550 stalls in total.

"The total program budget for this project was $123.3 million," Thompson said.

The station will also incorporate elements of the historic Eamon's Bungalow Camp that once stood nearby, with the former gas station and restaurant's iconic sign refurbished and set to be erected on the Rocky Ridge side before the official opening.

The city has also installed services for the old Eamon's building itself, which has been moved from the site and is in storage.

The city is looking for a commercial operator to occupy the building, but so far hasn't found any takers.

"We expect that half of the ridership of the LRT in these communities is going to come from the feeder bus network."

Grand opening

Calgary Transit is inviting the public to an opening event at the Tuscany LRT station on Aug. 23 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

- Regular C-Train and revised bus service will begin Monday morning, Aug. 25.

"It can be put back on site once we find a tenant," Thompson said.

Coun. Ward Sutherland said he's "really excited" that the station, originally slated to open in the fall, will now open Aug. 25, in time for post-secondary students to ride to September classes.

"It's going to be well used," Sutherland said of the station.

Sexual assault. Man sought in broad-daylight attack

Calgary police are asking the public for help after a woman was sexually assaulted by a naked man in a city cemetery.

The incident occurred in broad daylight at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Queen's Park Cemetery.

The victim was walking at the north end near a creek when she was grabbed from behind by the naked man and pushed to the ground.

The man forced himself on the victim and demanded she remove her clothes. But the victim managed to fight off her attacker, who retreated toward some trees.

Hehr vies for federal Grit nomination

Liberal MLA Kent Hehr declared Thursday his aspirations to snare a federal seat in a downtown Calgary riding.

Hehr says he's vying for the Calgary Centre nomination in the upcoming 2015 election, which is now held by Conservative Joan Crockatt.

"I've served the people of Calgary-Buffalo in the Alberta Legislature for almost two terms now and I truly love this community," says Hehr. "My heart is here."

The Liberal nomination in Calgary Centre hasn't been scheduled, and the federal election is tentatively set for Oct. 19, 2015. METRO

Exchange students enjoy life in Calgary, summer-camp style

A group of foreign students had fun in Calgary's splash and sun on Thursday thanks to a program devised by the Calgary Catholic School District.

Twelve junior high students visiting from Taiwan and China are part of a three-week summer camp aimed at improving their English language skills and giving them a taste of Calgary life.

This is the camp's third year, with the program cancelled last year due to the severe flood. It runs until July 23.

"I really enjoy meeting the children from other countries," said Christina Bosoni of the Calgary Catholic School District, who runs the summer camp.

"What I have found in the past is that some of them will continue and come back and study with us, maybe for a semester or a full year."

Activities that the students have been able to participate in this year have included Heritage Park, the Calgary Zoo and the Stampede Parade.

On Thursday they visited Arbour Lake for some swimming, boating and burying their friends in the sand.

Councillors want colleagues to consider 'human' side of tax hikes

Impact tool. Chu and Sutherland calling for formalized method of evaluating effects of fee increases

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

Two Calgary city councillors who believe some of their colleagues are too quick to approve tax and utility-rate increases have conceived a plan to put a "human face" on the impact of future fee hikes.

Couns. Sean Chu and Ward Sutherland intend to raise a motion at the July 28 council meeting that calls on city staff to develop a formal method of estimating the impact on low- and fixed-income Calgarians and small businesses, and then presenting the results to councillors.

"I want the councillors to have this on their minds — the effect on other people, especially vulnerable people — before making decisions," Chu said Thursday.

Sutherland said he's especially concerned about how annual tax and utility-rate increases are affecting seniors on fixed incomes.

"Some other individuals on council just seem to say, 'Well, you know what? We're a wealthy city. We're doing fine. We haven't hit the ceiling in what we can do with tax increases,'" Sutherland said Thursday.

"When I hear those types of conversations, I find it really disconcerting."

According to the city's financial plan for the next four and a half years, a typical household can expect to pay nearly $1,000 more in annual property taxes and other municipal fees in 2018 than it does now.

One evacuation order lifted, another issued during B.C. wildfire season

There was relief Thursday for hundreds of weary residents forced from their homes in northeastern British Columbia, as rain dampened a raging wildfire enough for officials to lift an evacuation order for the district of Hudson's Hope.

But as one evacuation order was lifted, another was issued for the community of Smith Creek, a neighbourhood in West Kelowna.

A small fire on the edge of the neighbourhood bloomed from a patch to 30 hectares in size in a few hours over Thursday afternoon.

Carla Weaden, a spokeswoman for Central Okanagan Emergency Operations, said the evacuation involves roughly 1,500 people from 585 homes. One home and outbuilding have already been consumed by the fire.

About 1,100 kilometres north of that fire, residents returned to Hudson's Hope after an anxious and sleepless night.

However they remained on evacuation alert and were warned to be ready to leave again at a moment's notice.

"Thankfully, due to the cooling weather and rain that we received, it tamed the fire enough that we don't think it poses an imminent threat," said Laurel Grimm, spokeswoman for the district.

Mike Duffy arrives on Parliament Hill in October 2013. The RCMP have laid 31 charges a Senate scandal. Spokesman for PM Stephen Harper calls suspended senator's alleged behaviour 'disgraceful'

With his folksy style and passion for politics, Mike Duffy became a household name as a veteran television journalist — a career that led him to a coveted Conservative seat in Parliament's upper chamber.

All that came crashing down Thursday as the RCMP laid 31 charges of fraud, breach of trust and bribery against the suspended senator.

The charges involve Duffy's claims for living expenses, claims for travel expenses unconnected with Senate business and fraudulent contracts, said RCMP's assistant commissioner, Gilles Michaud. They also cover a $90,000 payment Duffy allegedly received from Nigel Wright, the prime minister's former chief of staff.

Convictions on the charges could result in a prison sentence. The bribery count carries a maximum of 14 years.

Duffy's first court appearance is set for Sept. 16, the day after Parliament is scheduled to resume.

Donald Bayne, Duffy's lawyer, said when the full story is told, it will be clear Duffy is innocent of any wrongdoing.

"Those — including many in the media — who have been so eager and quick over the past year and a half to malign and even libel Sen. Duffy without his ever having had a fair hearing, should slow down their rush to judgment and let fair process determine this matter."

The behaviour outlined in the RCMP charges against Duffy is "disgraceful," a spokesman for Stephen Harper said Thursday.

Omar Khadr willing to remain in federal prison

Omar Khadr will remain in a federal prison.

The former Guantanamo Bay detainee has agreed to a stay of a decision by Alberta's top court that ruled he should be serving his sentence as a youth and be transferred to a provincial jail.

His lawyers say he's willing to remain at the federal Bowden Institution in central Alberta because he's doing well there, and they believe he'll still be able to apply to a youth court judge for release.

Khadr pleaded guilty in 2010 to five war-crimes charges, including murder, for killing an American soldier in Afghanistan when he was 15.

After spending a decade in Guantanamo Bay, Khadr was sentenced by a U.S. military commission to an additional eight years and shipped to Canada.

Seraphim Storheim

Ex-priest convicted of sexual assault granted bail

A former Orthodox priest convicted of sexually assaulting an altar boy spent just over a week behind bars before being freed on bail until his appeal is heard.

Seraphim Storheim was convicted of sexual assault this year and sentenced last week to eight months in jail, for an assault dating back almost 30 years. His lawyer, Jeff Gindin, appealed the conviction and sentence, arguing the judge came to the wrong conclusion when he didn't find Storheim's account credible.

Gindin argued Thursday his client should be released on bail until the appeal is heard because he poses no threat to society.

The Crown opposed bail, arguing Storheim has been found guilty of an egregious offence and it would send the wrong message to release him immediately following his conviction.

"He is no longer cloaked in the presumption of innocence," said Crown attorney Neil Stein. "He is now guilty … the public has an interest in seeing justice done."

CALGARY DEALERSHIP CLEARING OUT ALL USED INVENTORY UP TO 50% OFF!

Carl Holst, Sales Manager of Stampede Toyota, just announced plans to hold a vehicle summer clear out taking Place Saturday July 19 2014. According to Mr. Holst increased sales from the last few months have resulted in an overstock of trade-ins. "In the last three months our sales have increased at a higher than expected rate", Holst said. "Now, we must reduce the number of cars and trucks on our used lot to a more manageable number. During this vehicle spring clear-out sale every used car and truck will be sold from 10% up to 50% off its original asking price." Mr. Holst said. "In fact, cars that normally sell for five to eight thousand dollars will be sold for three to five thousand," Mr. Holst said. "Our customers will find these prices even lower than at wholesale auctions."

Auction bidding often inflates the true value of a car so you pay more. Here every car is on sale, first come first served and no bidding. It's the perfect opportunity to get a good quality new or used car at the lowest price in the city. All cars will be on display at Stampede Toyota on Barlow Trail, 2 blocks north of the Trans Canada Highway. This sale is one day only, doors open at 8:30am. Prices are posted on the windshield you will be given the opportunity to purchase the vehicle at these amazingly reduced sale prices. This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy and quick for anybody in the market for a good used vehicle to get a great car or truck at a very low price with no hassle.

One of Calgary's largest import dealers is overstocked and is forced to sell used cars and trucks for as low as 50% OFF, Saturday July 19, 2014, during a one-day sale event.

"Wholesale buyers will be represented to take trade-ins during the sale," Mr. Holst said. "We also have three business managers who will help buyers arrange low-cost financing. We've got over $10 Million Dollars in inventory to choose from. Our total inventory will be close to 600 new and used cars and trucks to choose from. We want to remind everyone that this is a one-day sale only. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations. Since we are a local business we would like to give back to the community," Mr. Holst said. "We would rather allow local people to buy these overstocked vehicles than wholesale them at an auction." All cars will be clearly marked with discounts from 10% up to 50% for the entire day. Due to the volume of sales during this event, please no telephone inquiries.

'Unprecedented.' Malaysia Airlines reeling once again months after plane vanishes

Two Boeing 777s. Two incredibly rare aviation disasters. And one airline.

In what appears to be a mind-boggling coincidence, Malaysia is reeling from the second tragedy to hit its national airline in less than five months.

On March 8, a Malaysia Airlines jetliner vanished about an hour after taking off from Kuala Lumpur, spawning an international mystery that remains unsolved. On Thursday, the airline — and the nation — were pitched into another crisis after the same type of aircraft was reported shot down over Ukraine. Ukraine officials said the plane was brought down by a missile over the violence-wracked eastern part of the country. Other details were only just beginning to emerge.

"This is a tragic day in what has already been a tragic year for Malaysia," Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak said.

"Either one of these events has an unbelievably low probability," said John Cox, president and CEO of Safety Operating Systems. "To have two in a just a few months of each other is certainly unprecedented." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From the past. Similar tragedies in history

As unthinkable as shooting down an airliner with hundreds of passengers is, it has happened before. Among the most recent notable cases were an Iranian plane shot down by the U.S. Navy.

Oct. 4, 2001: An errant surface-to-air missile fired by the Ukrainian military during exercises in Crimea causes the crash of an Air Siberia airliner en route from Tel Aviv to Novosibirsk. All 78 people on board were killed.

Oct. 20, 1998: Rebels in eastern Congo shoot down a Congo Airlines passenger jet carrying 40 people. The plane crashes into a densely forested area east of Kinshasa.

July 3, 1988: U.S. warship Vincennes shoots down an Iranian passenger plane over the Persian Gulf, mistaking it for a threatening warplane, during the war between Iraq and Iran. All 290 people aboard are killed.

April 10, 1988: Afghan guerrillas shoot down a Soviet-built passenger jet, killing all 29 people aboard.

Sept. 1, 1983: A Soviet fighter jet shoots down a Korean Air Lines passenger jet en route from New York to Seoul, purportedly mistaking the craft for a spy plane as it wandered into Soviet airspace west of Sakhalin Island. All 269 people aboard are killed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

298 killed after flight shot down in Ukraine

Donetsk region. Flight 17, carrying 283 passengers and 15 crew members, was shot down over Ukraine

Ukraine accused pro-Russian separatists of shooting down a Malaysian jetliner with 298 people aboard, sharply escalating the crisis and threatening to draw both East and West deeper into the conflict. The rebels denied downing the aircraft.

American intelligence authorities believe a surface-to-air missile brought the plane down Thursday but were still working on who fired the missile and whether it came from the Russian or Ukrainian side of the border, a U.S. official said.

Bodies, debris and burning wreckage of the Boeing 777 were strewn over a field near the rebel-held village of Hrabove in the Donetsk region of eastern Ukraine, about 40 kilometres from the Russian border, where fighting has raged for months.

The aircraft appeared to have broken up before impact, and there were large pieces of the plane that bore the red, white and blue markings of Malaysia Airlines — now familiar worldwide because of the carrier's still-missing jetliner from earlier this year.

There was no sign of any survivors from Flight 17, which took off shortly after noon Thursday from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur with 283 passengers, including three infants, and a crew of 15. Malaysia's prime minister said there was no distress call before the plane went down and that the flight route was declared safe by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko called it an "act of terrorism" and demanded an international investigation. He insisted his forces did not shoot down the plane.

Officials said more than half of those aboard the plane were Dutch citizens, along with passengers from Australia, Malaysia, the United Kingdom, Germany, Belgium, the Philippines and Canada.

The different nationalities of the dead would bring Ukraine's conflict to parts of the globe that were never touched by it before. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli military launches ground offensive in Gaza Strip

Smoke from flares rises above Gaza City on Thursday. Israel has launched a ground offensive in the Gaza Strip. LEFTERIS PITARAKIS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The heavy thud of tank shells, often just seconds apart, echoed across the Gaza Strip early Friday as thousands of Israeli soldiers launched a ground invasion, escalating a 10-day campaign of heavy air bombardments to try to destroy Hamas' rocket-firing abilities and the tunnels militants use to infiltrate Israel.

"There is a tank shell every minute," said an official in the Gaza security operations room, who said all of the seaside strip's border areas were being shelled and that Hamas fighters were exchanging fire with Israeli troops near a northern Gaza town.

Israel launched the offensive late Thursday after becoming increasingly exasperated with unrelenting rocket fire from Gaza on its cities, especially following Hamas' rejection of an Egyptian cease-fire plan earlier in the week.

Palestinian militants have fired more than 1,500 rockets at Israeli cities since fighting began.

However, a ground offensive could quickly lead to military and political entanglements for Israel, especially if more Palestinian civilians are killed.

More than 240 Palestinians have already died in the air campaign, including 14 children under age 12 killed over the past two days, according to Palestinian health officials. One Israeli has also died.

Israel accuses Hamas of firing from within populated neighbourhoods and using civilians as "human shields."

Hamas struck a defiant tone. A spokesman, Fawzi Barhoum, said Israel "will pay dearly" for the assault. "Hamas is ready for a confrontation," he said.

The Israeli operation began around 10 p.m. Thursday, with what the military said was an open-ended assault to be carried out on several fronts.

The ground offensive brought swift criticism from UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, who said he regretted that despite his repeated urgings and "those of many regional and world leaders together, an already dangerous conflict has now escalated even further." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Woman fired over gay marriage sues U.S. Catholic church

'I was mostly shell-shocked.' Colleen Simon was fired when the couple was mentioned last April in a newspaper article

A parish food pantry worker who was fired over her marriage to another woman sued the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph on Thursday, the latest in a growing number of clashes across America over gay rights between Roman Catholic leaders and their employees.

Colleen Simon, 57, said the diocese and the parish where she worked knew she was married and that her wife was a well-known community leader before Simon was hired. She was fired when the couple was mentioned last April in a newspaper article.

"I was mostly shell-shocked," Simon said. "I hadn't thought it would come to this."

Diocesan officials hadn't yet seen the lawsuit, but said in a statement, "As a church, we have the right to live and operate according to our faith and church teachings."

The Missouri lawsuit was filed Thursday by Simon, who said she worked as a parish bookkeeper in the diocese before she was hired in 2013 as a food pantry co-ordinator at St. Francis Xavier Church.

In each step of the hiring process, she said, she told administrators she had married a woman a year earlier in Iowa, where gay marriage is recognized, and diocesan and parish representatives said her marital status would not be a problem. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gay rights group

New Ways Ministry, a Catholic gay-rights group, has found more than 15 cases since 2010 of U.S. teachers, school administrators or parish musicians who lost jobs or resigned after expressing support for gay marriage or going public with their own same-sex relationships.

- Dioceses in Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio; Honolulu, Hawaii; Oakland, Calif., and elsewhere have added moral clauses to their teacher contracts, barring public support for gay rights.

American gets 20 years for 1984 jetliner hijacking

An American who returned from Cuba decades after hijacking a jetliner to the communist island was sentenced Thursday to 20 years in U.S. prison but will be eligible for early release on parole, an acknowledgement by prosecutors of the years he spent behind bars in Cuba.

U.S. District Judge K. Michael Moore imposed the sentence Thursday on William Potts Jr., 57, for the 1984 hijacking of the Piedmont Airlines flight en route from New York to Miami. Potts pleaded guilty to a kidnapping charge, which was substituted by prosecutors for a previous air piracy charge that would have required Potts to serve a minimum of 20 years.

This way, Potts should get out on parole after serving almost seven years. Assistant U.S. Attorney Maria Medetis said that was the government's way of giving Potts credit for 13 years he served in Cuba — the Combinado del Este Prison near Havana that Potts' lawyer, Robert Berube, described as a "hellhole."

"He did an unbelievable amount of time in a very bad place," Berube said.

Potts apologized in court and said he is no longer the self-described angry black militant calling himself "Lt. Spartacus" who claimed in a note to a flight attendant that he planned to blow up the flight unless it was diverted to Cuba.

Potts returned to the U.S. last year hoping to resolve the case so he could spend time with his two children, who had since moved from Cuba to the U.S. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Facebook testing new 'Buy' button

Changing for dollars. The Buy button could drive sales through the massive social media site; testing ongoing Facebook is testing a Buy button in its latest effort to help businesses boost their sales through the world's biggest online social network.

The company said in a statement Thursday that the button will let people buy products directly from businesses without leaving Facebook. A Buy button appears at the bottom of sponsored ads and is being tested by a limited group of several small- and medium-sized U.S. businesses.

EMarketer analyst Debra Aho said that not long ago, most businesses thought Facebook was better suited for building awareness than driving sales, but the Menlo Park, California-based company is trying hard to change that image.

"With this step, Facebook is becoming even more firmly established as a major player in direct response advertising, and though this test is still only a test, it's a definite sign that Facebook wants to restart its efforts to become an e-commerce company, as well," she said.

Facebook says it won't share credit and debit card info. The company said it will provide more details once it gathers feedback from the test. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new turn

Mobile advertising is one of Facebook's fastest-growing revenue categories. Nearly 80 per cent of its users access the site on smartphones and other devices. In the January-March quarter, earnings nearly tripled and revenue grew sharply as advertising revenue rose 82 per cent.

TV experiment on sidewalk cellphone use

As part of their Mind Over Masses television show, National Geographic divided a one block-long sidewalk into two sections; one for cell phone users and the other for those not using a cellphone in downtown Washington, Thursday. N.Y. to regulate virtual currency

New York became the first U.S. state on Thursday to propose establishing rules for firms involved in receiving, transmitting and storing virtual currency.

The proposal by the Department of Financial Services would establish a so-called BitLicense.

Merchants and consumers who use the virtual currency such as Bitcoin solely to buy and sell goods and services wouldn't need a license. However, those buying and selling virtual currency as a business would.

The proposal is intended to establish consumer protections and prevent money laundering. Financial Services Superintendent Ben Lawsky said his agency is trying to do that without stifling innovation.

The proposed rules are scheduled to be published July 23, followed by a 45-day comment period. Lawsky posted a description Thursday on the website Reddit.

Bitcoins and other virtual currencies have been gaining the backing of legitimate investors and mainstream businesses.

Users swap cash for virtual currency using online exchanges, then store it in a wallet program on their computer.

The program can transfer payments directly to a merchant who accepts the currency or to private parties anywhere in the world.

America. Campaigning politician gets into a jam showing gun bona fides

If guns are a run-of-the-mill prop for politicians in the United States, it was perhaps only a matter of time before things backfired on someone this campaign season.

A candidate in this fall's congressional elections had to yank down an online video in which he used a pump-action shotgun to blow up a pinata of an elephant — the logo of the Republican party.

It was the hint of political violence that people disliked, not the use of a shotgun in Estakio Beltran's campaign ad. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don't shoot the elephant

For those running in rural areas of the U.S. like Democrat Estakio Beltran, being photographed with a gun is almost a prerequisite for office, like kissing babies.

- "They call me a long shot," said Beltran's campaign ad.

Kentucky

Cops not amused by pizza prank

Police in southern Kentucky say they got a surprise delivery after charging a man with shoplifting — five pizzas showed up at the station. Cops say Michael Harp, 29, asked to make a call on his cell while being booked. A short time later a pizza delivery driver showed up for the officer who arrested Harp. Police say they linked the call to Harp by tracking his cell. But Harp said "10 people'' used his phone. Still, he faces other charges: theft of identity, theft by deception, and impersonating a cop. I'm 'sober as a judge,' claims Toronto's mayor

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford claims he's sober and healthy. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Recovered mayor?

Rob Ford 'guarantees' the wish of his enemies that he fall off the wagon just won't happen

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is declaring himself "sober as a judge" and "healthy as a horse."

For the first time since Ford completed two months in rehab, he took questions about his substance abuse from journalists at large. He previously said in a handful of interviews that he couldn't guarantee he won't relapse, only that he's taking his recovery one day at a time.

But he was more declarative Thursday when asked when the last time was that he drank or did drugs.

"A lot of people really wish that I'm going to fail, that I'm going to drink and that I'm going to do drugs," Ford said. "Unfortunately, that wish will not come true. That wish, guaranteed, will not come true because I'm as sober as a judge and I'm moving forward, running this city and saving taxpayers money."

Ford said he knows people are watching his every move, and that they should continue doing so because his "biggest move" will be on Oct. 27, when he believes he will be re-elected as mayor. A sobriety coach who had been trailing Ford has moved on, he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three hostages

Gang of U.S. robbers intended to kill: Police

A gang of U.S. bank robbers who took three women hostage during their getaway attempt and waged a deadly high-speed gun battle with police were heavily armed, had ammunition magazines taped or strapped to their bodies and intended to kill, police said Thursday.

Two of the robbers were killed Wednesday along with a hostage who police said was used by the only surviving alleged robber, 19-year-old Jaime Ramos, as a shield.

"In my over two decades of law enforcement I have never seen or experienced this type of total disregard for human life," Stockton Police Chief Eric Jones said.

During the hour-long chase, two of the hostages jumped or were thrown from the stolen SUV. At least one had a gunshot wound. Both were expected to survive.

Earhart airplane search

U.S. judge hears arguments in case

The search for Amelia Earhart's missing airplane could land in front of a U.S. jury, depending on how a judge rules in a lawsuit filed by a man who says he was duped into donating $1 million for an expedition.

A U.S. district judge heard arguments Thursday on dismissing a lawsuit that centres on whether Earhart's plane, which disappeared in July 1937 in the South Pacific, was found.

Tim Mellon maintains in his lawsuit that the U.S.-based International Group for Historic Aircraft Recovery and its executive director, Ric E. Gillespie, actually found Earhart's plane in 2010. Mellon, son of the late philanthropist Paul Mellon, says the group kept the discovery secret so he would keep giving it money. However, the expedition group maintains it did nothing wrong because there was no conclusive evidence whether it had found Earhart's plane.

Jerry Sandusky's son talks to Oprah about alleged abuse by father, bedtime 'ritual'

Adopted. Convicted of sexual abuse of 10 boys, Jerry Sandusky now serving from 30 to 60 years in prison

An adopted son of convicted child molester Jerry Sandusky is providing details of the sexual abuse he allegedly suffered at the hands of his father.

Matt Sandusky, who was initially a foster child of the Sanduskys, tells Oprah Winfrey in a TV show airing Thursday night that his overnight visits with the family as a child were good "except for one part: bedtime."

"Bedtime was the bad part. But any other time that we were in the home, that we were doing anything in the home with the family, it was fine and it was — again, you would look at that family and you would say, wow. Like I wish that I had brothers and sisters that cared about me. I wish that I had a mother who cooked dinner every night for the whole family. I wish that I had all of these things. But then at bedtime, his ritual began," Matt Sandusky told Winfrey in a brief clip released by the network.

The network said Sandusky discusses the grooming, methodical control and manipulation he faced as a child.

He had also discussed the alleged abuse in a documentary, Happy Valley, shown earlier this year and in an audiotape of an interview with police detectives that NBC obtained at the time of Jerry Sandusky's 2012 trial.

Matt Sandusky told investigators Jerry Sandusky had rubbed along or against his genitals. He said then that he did not recall any penetration or oral sex, and that memories were coming back to him.

He said he was coming forward at that time because he had told a different story to an investigative grand jury and wanted to correct the record.

"So that they can really have closure and see what the truth actually is. And just to right the wrong, honestly, of going to the grand jury and lying," Matt Sandusky said two years ago. He was not called to testify, and Jerry Sandusky has not been charged with any crime in relation to his adopted son.

Jerry Sandusky, once Hall-of-Fame coach Joe Paterno's assistant and heir apparent at Penn State University, was convicted of sexual abuse of 10 other boys. He is serving a 30- to 60-year sentence.

Matt Sandusky is among those who have claimed abuse at Sandusky's hands who have been paid civil settlements by Penn State.

Chelsea Manning. U.S. Bureau of Prisons rejects Army's transfer request

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons has rejected the Army's request to accept the transfer of national security leaker Chelsea Manning from a military prison. The military will therefore begin treatment for her gender-identity condition.

A defence official said Defence Secretary Chuck Hagel has approved the Army's recommendation to keep Manning in military custody and start a rudimentary level of gender treatment.

The Army tried to get Manning transferred to the federal prison system, but officials said those discussions have ended.

Manning has been diagnosed with gender dysphoria, the sense of being a woman in a man's body. Civilian prisons can provide treatment, but the Defence Department doesn't have the medical expertise needed. Officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to discuss the matter publicly by name. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

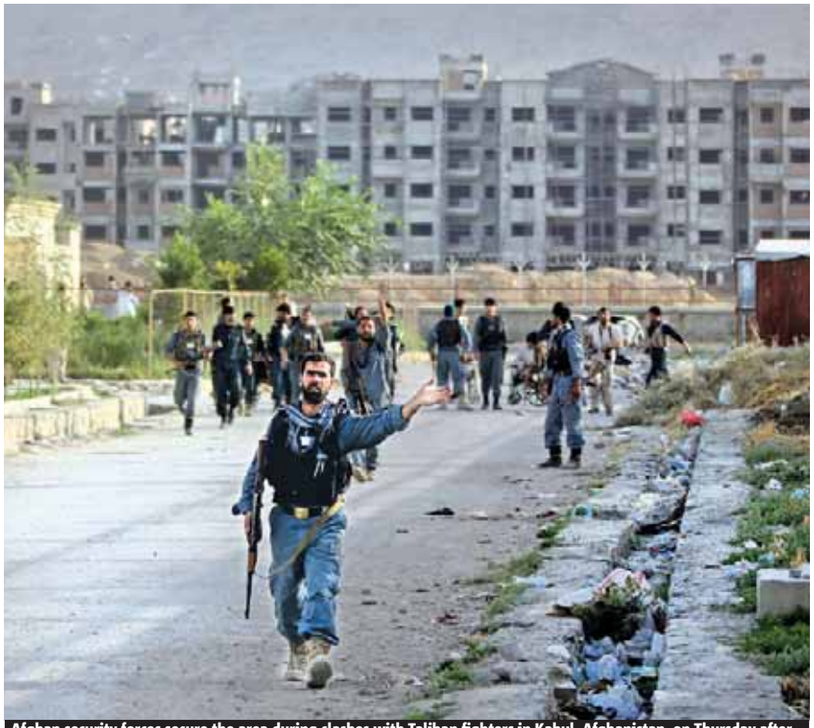
Attack shuts Kabul airport



Afghan security forces secure the area during clashes with Taliban fighters in Kabul, Afghanistan, on Thursday after gunmen launched a pre-dawn attack on Kabul International Airport. MASSOUD HOSSAINI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tense time. Attack comes as disputed second round of presidential election yet to be resolved

Afghanistan's election commission began auditing ballots Thursday following a U.S.-brokered deal between the two presidential contenders while a brazen attack on the Kabul airport underscored the dangers the country still faces.

The pre-dawn rocket attack on Kabul International Airport shut down the facility and set off a gun battle in which four attackers were killed, officials said.

The militants occupied two buildings that were under construction some 700 metres north of the facility and used them to direct rockets and gunfire toward the airport and international jet fighters flying over Kabul. Several rockets hit the airport, but no planes were damaged.

Kabul's police chief said the airport later reopened and operations returned to normal. Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid claimed responsibility for the assault.

A deal negotiated over the weekend by U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry provides that every one of the 8 million ballots will be audited under national and international supervision.

Troop withdrawal

Military commanders did not recommend that the White House announce the complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Afghanistan in 2017 as the president ordered, the top U.S. commander there told senators Thursday.

- Marine Gen. Joseph Dunford said U.S. and Afghan military leaders would have preferred to see American officials be "a bit more ambiguous" about troop numbers and not telegraph to the enemy that international forces would leave.

Millions in gold recovered from shipwreck: Documents

Deep-sea explorers recovered millions of dollars in gold and silver and a slew of personal items that are a virtual time capsule of the California Gold Rush, according to newly unsealed court documents that provide the first detailed inventory of a treasure trove being resurrected from an 1857 shipwreck at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean.

The recovery effort at the SS Central America shipwreck, about 320 kilometres off the South Carolina coast, is being directed by a court-appointed receiver of an Ohio company that had been led by a treasure hunter-turned-fugitive named Tommy Thompson, who first found the Central America in 1988.

Maritime disaster

The SS Central America sailed into a hurricane in 1857 during the California Gold Rush and sank in one of the worst maritime disasters in American history.

- About 425 people were killed and thousands of pounds of gold sank with it, contributing to an economic panic.

Immediately after finding the ship and recovering a fraction of its garden of gold, Thompson became embroiled in a decades-long legal battle over who had rights to the treasure and how it was being dispersed. None of the investors ever saw a return.

In August 2012, after he failed to show up for several court hearings, a warrant was issued for Thompson's arrest. He has been a federal fugitive ever since. Meanwhile, the Central America and its gold sat untouched since 1991.

Holocaust museum opens WWII war-crimes archive to the public

From Adolf Hitler down to the petty bureaucrats who staffed the Nazi death camps, thousands of perpetrators of World War II war crimes were eventually written up in vast reams of investigative files that now, for the first time, can be viewed in their entirety by the public.

The U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington has obtained a full copy of the UN War Crimes Commission archive that has largely been locked away for the past 70 years at the United Nations.

Digital archive

The vast collection includes about 500,000 digitized microfilm images with more than 10,000 case files in multiple languages from Europe and Asia.

In addition to Hitler and his henchmen, the files list thousands of obscure cases.

They include Helmut Steinmetz in Warsaw, Poland, who was accused of murdering a crippled Jewish man he met on the street, as well as killing a railroad porter with a stick for refusing to carry his luggage.

And Elimar Luder Precht, chief dentist at concentration camps, who was accused of selecting Auschwitz inmates for execution based on gold or platinum teeth that could be taken. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LARGEST PRE-OWNED STORE IN CALGARY

Iraqi Shiite fighters place posters showing Iran's spiritual leader, Ayatollah Khomeini, as they deploy with their weapons in Basra, Iraq, on June 14. NABIL AL-JURANI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iranian general on front lines of Iraqi fight against radicals

Hands-on role. Shiite fighters idolize the Iranians who have moved into the heat of battle alongside them

A powerful Iranian general has emerged as the chief tactician in Iraq's fight against Sunni militants, working on the front lines alongside 120 advisers from his country's Revolutionary Guard to direct Shiite militiamen and government forces in the smallest details of battle, militia commanders and government officials say.

The startlingly hands-on role of Iranian Gen. Ghasem Soleimani points to the extent of the Shiite-led Iraqi government's reliance on its ally Tehran. It also strikes a strong contrast with the more methodical, cautious approach of the United States, Iran's rival for influence in Iraq.

Soleimani, commander of the elite Revolutionary Guard's Quds Force, is a frequent visitor to multiple battle zones in Iraq, most particularly in Samarra, a city north of Baghdad under siege by Sunni extremists in their march toward the capital. The city is vital to Baghdad's Shiite-led government because it is the location of a revered Shiite shrine that Sunni insurgents have destroyed in the past and are targeting again now.

In his frequent stays in Samarra, Soleimani bases himself in the al-Askari shrine, even sleeping in its basement as he co-ordinates the city's defence, said two Shiite militia commanders who saw him there. On one recent visit, he joined militiamen in group prayers in the shrine, said one of the commanders, who like the other spoke on condition of anonymity because the government has sought to keep the Iranian role behind the scenes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tehran's involvement

Iraq's state-run media has made no mention of Iranian involvement, apparently to avoid fuelling the sectarian rift.

- Besides the adviser team, Iranian drones are flying near-daily reconnaissance flights and Iranian weapons have been pouring into Iraq in large quantities, mostly to Shiite militias.
- Iran also allowed Iraqi pilots to bring back to Iraq five Soviet-era Sukhoi-25 fighter-bombers that Saddam Hussein ordered flown to Iran rather than risk their destruction before the 1991 Gulf War. The aircraft join about a half dozen Sukhoi-25s that Iraq bought second-hand from Russia to give an edge to its fledgling air force of two Cessna planes firing U.S.-made Hellfire missiles.
- The Shiite militia commanders said Soleimani was also directing militias, volunteers and government forces at other front-line zones around Baghdad. His willingness — and that of his advisers — to go right into the battle has created a near cult of personality for Soleimani among some militiamen.
- A handful of advisers from Lebanon's Shiite Hezbollah guerrilla group are also offering front-line guidance to Iraqi militias fighting north of Baghdad.

Loblaws. Weston steps up

Galen Weston is taking more control of the family-run business as he assumes the role of president at Loblaw Companies Ltd., Canada's largest grocer, amid the abrupt departure of two senior executives.

Weston, who is also executive chairman of the company, said Thursday that previously his responsibility had been to oversee strategy at the food retailing giant. Since that has been established in the last few years, he'll now handle the day-to-day operations, including opening up more communication with shareholders.

"I think the time feels right for me," he told analysts during a conference call following the early morning announcement. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tim Hortons brewing some innovative ideas

Coffee klatch. Iconic Canadian coffee chain brainstorms new ways to beat competition

Marc Caira, right, president and CEO of Tim Hortons and David Clanachan, COO of Tim Hortons, order coffee in a prototype of a Tim Hortons "Restaurant of the Future" at the company's owners conference in Toronto on Wednesday.
DARREN CALABRESE/ THE CANADIAN PRESS

If a pint of coffee-flavoured beer gets you salivating, then Tim Hortons has a few other ideas that could change how you think about the restaurant chain.

Executives have lifted the curtain on a new concept store, buried deep inside the Metro Toronto Convention Centre, as part of an invite-only convention this week for store owners and suppliers that is essentially a visual brainstorming session.

Redefining itself in the highly competitive food services industry will be a challenge for a mainstay brand like Tim Hortons, but as more companies try to encroach on its dominant position in the Canadian coffee market it's not like there's much of a choice but to find ways to be different.

Certainly there were plenty of ideas to chew on — some even controversial.

Consider the beer taps that pour brews inspired by Tim Hortons' trademark coffee flavour — and a strawberry lager for the sweeter tooths. Or how about a unisex washroom that features a communal sink?

And there's even a conceptual design for a new Tim Hortons logo that features only a bright red coffee bean.

Tim Hortons first showcased digital menu boards at its previous model store seven years ago and only recently have they become part of the store design. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Strike averted

Long Island rail workers get deal

After four years of negotiations, unions and management at the United States' largest commuter railroad reached a tentative contract agreement Thursday.

The deal announced by Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who personally got involved in the final hours of the negotiations, gives Long Island Rail Road workers a 17 per cent pay raise over six and a half years.

Cuomo, who is running for a second term in November, hailed the deal as a compromise that protects workers and riders because it calls for no additional fare hikes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Microsoft slashes jobs, boosts stock

Microsoft is cutting up to 18,000 jobs, about 14 per cent of its staff, over the next year as it works to cut down on management layers and integrate the Nokia devices business it bought in April.

The news sent Microsoft's stock up three per cent in premarket trading.

Although the job cuts had been expected, the extent of them was a surprise. It's the boldest move by CEO Satya Nadella since he took the reins from Steve Ballmer in February. In a public email to employees Thursday, he said the changes were needed for the company to "become more agile and move faster." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHO'S HER DADDY? ALLEGEDLY DUFFY

It's time to check into the week's trendiest news ... or is that the week's newsiest trends? I get so confused.

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

1 The 13th Step is the Hardest. Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is back from rehab and is trying, with mixed results, to get back in the game. It's getting so bad that Marion Barry, the former crack-smoking mayor of Washington, D.C., says Ford is "making a fool of himself" and he's tired of people making comparisons.

2 He Ain't Heavy; He's My, Er, Dad: Speaking of XXXL politicians, star-crossed Sen. Mike Duffy is having a rough week. RCMP has laid 31 charges of fraud and breach of trust against him related to the Senate expense scandal. And if that doesn't put him off his feed, he finds himself fending off a paternity lawsuit from a 32-year-old woman who says he's her real dad. According to Maclean's, Karen Duffy sprang from an affair Duffy had with a convicted Peruvian drug smuggler who served time at a Kingston prison. Just writing that sentence gives me goosebumps.

3 You Can Go Home Again. Especially if they're paying you $21,573,398 US a year to do so. After four years as the cornerstone of the Miami Heat, Ohio native LeBron James is going back to Cleveland where he started his NBA career, saying that he hopes to be a Cavalier for the rest of his career. Miami. Cleveland. Cleveland. Miami. What's to choose?

4 Duh. A California judge has declared the death penalty unconstitutional — probably because if you're a judge, you can't just call something stupid. You have to get legal and call it unconstitutional. But his argument is a bit creepy, to say the least. The state, he opines, is breaking a solemn promise, i.e. to kill the condemned prisoner. Of the 900 sent to death row in California since 1978, only 13 have been executed. "For too long," the judge wrote, "the promise has been an empty one." Inmate to judge: I'm OK with that.

5 Death by Amoeba. In more unfunny news, a nine-year-old Kansas girl has been killed by a brain-eating amoeba called Naegleria fowleri. Lurking in the lake or the swimming hole, it goes up through your nose and heads for your brain … and starts eating. It's extremely rare, but of the 130 people who have been infected over the last 50 years, only three have survived. Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the water.

6 What's Wrong with a Pony? Jeremiah Heaton, a doting dad from Virginia, gets the Enabler of the Week Award. His daughter Emily — like many a seven-year-old girl — is obsessed with princesses. So Dad hops on a plane and lands on an unclaimed patch of desert between Egypt and Sudan, where he plants the family flag (designed by the kids: blue background with a seal and stars), claiming it as The Kingdom of North Sudan, so Emily will one day be a real princess. Imagine if some guy from the Sudan tried that trick in Death Valley. We hope that Emily is amused, at least.

A Vodou pilgrim scrubs himself with tree leaves to give him good luck, as he gets ready to cleanse himself in a waterfall believed to have purifying powers during the annual celebration in Saut d'Eau, Haiti.

Vodou pilgrims head to the waters to pay tribute to patron saint

Followers of Haiti's most celebrated patron saint, Our Lady of Mount Carmel, gather at the Saut d'Eau waterfall every summer to pay tribute and make requests.

This year, worshippers performed Voodoo cleansing rituals in the water, stripping off their clothes and using leaves to wash away bad luck and their sins.

They also petitioned the saint to improve their lives.

Lionel Saint-Jean said that after losing his house in Haiti's catastrophic 2010 quake, he asked the saint for a new one and got it.

"So I came this year to thank her for that," Saint-Jean said.

Thousands come to Saut d'Eau every year to honor the virgin.

Voodoo, or Vodou as many practitioners prefer, evolved from West African beliefs and adopted elements of Roman Catholicism.

STAR-TELEGRAM.COM

A tree grew in Haiti

The Saut d'Eau area holds cultural significance in Haiti, to both Catholic and Vodou practitioners.

- It is believed that the Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel appeared on a palm tree there in the 19th century.
- A French priest, afraid of the superstition this would inspire, cut the tree down, but it nonetheless became an important religious destination for Haitians.

Let's talk about sex (tapes)

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel's chemistry can't save Sex Tape. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz are Jay and Annie, a married couple who try to spice things up in the bedroom by videotaping themselves working through the Joy of Sex page by page. All goes well until Jay forgets to delete the video and mistakenly posts their three-hour amateur porntacular on the cloud. With BFFs Robby (Rob Corddry) and Tess (Ellie Kemper), the embarrassed couple try and retrieve each of the "infected" iPads, especially the one in the hands of Hank Rosenbaum (Rob Lowe), the family-first CEO of the company that publishes Annie's G-rated mommy blog.

Implausible porno. Cameron Diaz in her underwear, a newly slim Jason Segel and a clever Rob Lowe casting can't save this film's lacklustre libido

Richard: Mark, any movie with the word sex in the title and Cameron Diaz in her underwear and a newly slim Jason Segel in the all-together should be a lot sexier than Sex Tape is.

The first 20 minutes plays more like an attempt to break the world record for using the word "sex" in a movie than an actual story. Diaz and Segel talk about sex, have sex, then talk about it some more, but rather than being racy or slap-your-thigh funny it becomes tiresome. The only word used more often is "iPad," which is even less provocative.

Mark: Richard, this movie is one of the best Apple commercials I've seen in years. But it does have some laughs. I couldn't decide, though, if it was original yet flimsy or flimsy yet original.

I was glad the running time clocked in at a neat 90 minutes as it was wearing out its welcome fast.

That's mostly because Cameron Diaz' smokin' hot bod is naked only in the first half of the picture. She has a pretty good chemistry with Jason Segel, but Rob Lowe steals the show.

Considering his own past, it's a neat bit of stunt casting.

RC: The Robs are the best part of the movie. The iPad retrieval from Rosenbaum's mansion gives Rob Lowe (who knows a thing or two about sex tapes) a chance for some off-the-wall fun as the straight-laced executive with a wild side.

Rob Corddry's wide-eyed interest in his best friend's sex tape was amusing and felt like the most genuine thing in the movie.

I thought Diaz and Segel were OK, but I didn't buy into the movie's main joke for a second.

MB: Yes, well, talk about a manufactured crisis!

There's lots to pick apart here, especially the subplot involving Corddry's blackmailing teenage son. But there's some nifty dialogue, especially at the beginning of the movie, and a scene I liked at the porn server's with a cameo by a famous comic actor.

By the way, all those porn website titles they spiel off are real ones, or, umm, so I was told by the guy sitting next to me.

RC: Hey! I was sitting next to you. I take the fifth.

Unlike you, I hated the first section of the movie. I thought the least interesting part of the movie was the sex and the sex talk.

MB: No one will mistake this movie for the classic comedies of Preston Sturges.

The movie aims low and thereby exceeds expectations.

Not very demanding, but it is summer.

Tammy

Director. Ben Falcone

Stars. Melissa McCarthy, Susan Sarandon

Tammy (Melissa McCarthy) is having a bad day. She's totaled her clunker car, gotten fired from her thankless job at a greasy burger joint and, instead of finding comfort at home, finds her husband getting comfortable with the neighbour in her own house. It's time to take her boom box and book it. The bad news is she's broke and without wheels. The worse news is her grandma, Pearl (Susan Sarandon), is her only option — with a car and cash.

Third Person

Director. Paul Haggis

Stars. Mila Kunis, Olivia Wilde

Third Person tells three stories of love, passion, trust and betrayal, in a multi-strand story line reminiscent of Paul Haggis's earlier Oscar-winning film Crash. The tales play out in New York, Paris and Rome: three couples who appear to have nothing related butshare deep commonalities: lovers and estranged spouses, children lost and found.

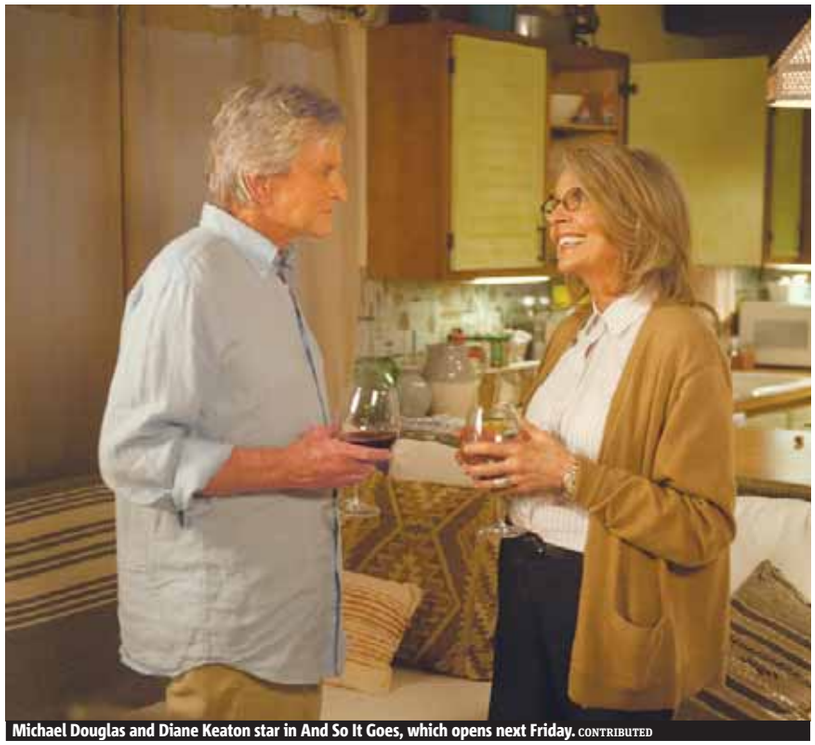
Keaton sings a new tune

And So It Goes.
Veteran actress always wanted to become a singer and finally got her wish in latest role

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca



Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton star in And So It Goes, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Diane Keaton's latest film, the romance And So It Goes, brings the star back to her roots.

As a beginner, long before she won an Academy Award for Annie Hall, or starred in the controversial Looking for Mr. Goodbar or inspired romantic rivalry between her Reds leading men, Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson, Keaton dreamed of being a singer.

"I had a fantasy of being a nightclub singer that I carried through even into my early 20s," she says.

"I sang a couple of gigs, as they call them, but I was not very good. I began to understand that I was not going to be a singer. I've always loved to sing but I'm aware of the limitations of my voice. It was always a disappointing voice. I took singing lessons for years, but it was a very small voice. It's worse than it ever was.

"It's smaller than ever. But I have this love of it. I love music. I love singing ballads and sad songs, it's just so much fun."

And sing she does in the new film, a romance co-starring Michael Douglas — "He couldn't be any more charming," she says — about Leah, a woman who gets a second chance at a career and love.

"I never thought I'd ever sing again. I had some songs intermittently in some movies but to have it come up again and have the possibility of singing four songs and one song all the way through was a dream come true."

Keaton describes Leah, a lounge singer who bursts into tears at the mere thought of her late husband, as a woman, "who has had a lovely life but has lost the love of her life. She's my age, in her late 60s."

The 68-year-old Oscar winner says playing Leah was "a joy," but adds, "getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."

"Getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."
Diane Keaton

"With that in mind you start seeing life in a different way. You don't see it so much as the goals for the future; it's just now. You live in the moment, in the present. This is what you have.

"So I really feel you're more grateful, you're more filled with awe, you're more amazed because it is a huge, giant question mark this life we live in.

"It's a huge gift and you need to see yourself for what you are and appreciate what you have while you have it now."

The role Johnson was fighting for

Dwayne 'The Rock' Johnson stars in Hercules, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Hercules. The man also known as The Rock says he's always been obsessed with Greek strongman

scene@metronews.ca

Dwayne Johnson's first exposure to legendary strongman Hercules didn't come from mythology class, but from a legendary bodybuilder-turned-actor who played the divine Greek hero on screen twice.

"When I was a kid I remember being visually captivated by the Steve Reeves poster," says Johnson.

"He's breaking free of this pillar and chains. I didn't know the mythology back then but I knew the image. That image captivated me.

"When I was a kid I was always drawn to men who were able to accomplish things, whether they were big things or little things, but men who took care of business physically."

Years later as Johnson, then better known as wrestling superstar The Rock, was transitioning from the ring to the screen he thought his bulked up physique would make him the new Steve Reeves.

"When I got to Hollywood I spoke to executives and I brought up Hercules. Didn't have the clout to make anything happen back then. I have a little bit more these days though and I was able to make it happen."

The result of Johnson's lifelong dream is Hercules, an action adventure based on the graphic novel Hercules: The Thracian Wars and co-starring John Hurt, Ian McShane and model-turned-actress Irina Shayk.

"There's been so many iterations of Hercules over the years I wanted to create something different," he says.

"Hopefully epic and hopefully redefine him for our generation."

In the film, Hercules rejects his own mythology in an attempt to stay grounded, something Johnson understands.

"I have enjoyed a good amount of success and I'm very grateful for everything that I have," the bulky actor says.

"Like Hercules not buying into the myth, not buying into the story but just being aware of it, I'm very grateful for being who I am and making sure that I continue to approach every project and everything that I do as if it is going to be my last.

"There was a time when I was in Canada, playing for the CFL and sleeping on a mattress that I got from the garbage of a sex motel. I'll never forget it. True story. So, for me, those times are kind of in the forefront of my mind.

"The wolf is always scratching at the door. It's good to remember that. It's important."

Bob Saget sat right down and wrote a cleansing memoir

Full House rules.
Comedian gets real about tarnishing his Danny Tanner family-man image with dirty standup schtick

Something titillating occurs when the stand-up comedian who endeared himself to TV audiences in the 1990s as the wholesome patriarch on Full House tours the festival circuit after decades of free-styling his particular brand of silly-dirty humour.

"They do take whatever controlled substances as these events go, and that's when my name from the past comes into play," Bob Saget joked in a recent interview. "They go, 'Oh my god, you're Danny Tanner,' and then I go, 'Yes I am, please put your shirt down, miss.'"

Saget, 58, has pushed his career forward with crass laughs in the years since he also played the host on America's Funniest Home Videos. But when pressed on the drugs issue in relation to his performance this Saturday at the Pemberton Music Festival, north of Vancouver, it's his inner parent who responds.

"I don't condone it, I don't want to see anybody get hurt, I want everybody to have a good time," said the real-life father of three, noting he just wants his audience to have the best time possible.

Saget will share the Laugh Camp stage at the festival's relaunch with a gut-busting lineup of a dozen or so comedians that also includes Tom Green, Lisa Lampanelli and Norm Macdonald. Dozens of bands, including headliners Soundgarden and Kendrick Lamar will also perform this weekend.

Saget's hour-long set will be a "best of" showcase, he said, where he'll "scat" stories, rib the audience and perhaps make the crowd sing along with a tune he popularized at Montreal's Just For Laughs Festival. Over the past year, Saget has toured across the United States, Australia and six Canadian provinces.

This time he is also promoting his memoir, released in April, called Dirty Daddy: The Chronicles of a Family Man Turned Filthy Comedian. The account, he said, is "about as honest as I've ever been with anything."

It describes a life peppered with death: Four siblings, three uncles, Saget's father and, just before she had time to read the whole thing, his mother. Saget said he hopes the book underscores that no matter how bad life can get, comedy can be the salve.

"When there's humour in that conversation," Saget said, "it really does diffuse the moment. And it creates compassion, also, which can help a person feel like a person amidst some of the most horrific things that they go through."

When asked whether Saget, a man who has sought success through contrasting faces, understands himself now, he didn't joke.

"Oh, I definitely do," he said. "I'm a silly comedian. I'm not a dirty comedian as much as I am a silly comedian. I laugh at stuff that a 10-year-old enjoys." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Crass course in comeuppance

Saget intentionally sullied his image with roles in Entourage and The Aristocrats following the family friendly shows that made him a household name. He said the book wasn't so much an attempt to reinvent himself yet again as it was a "heart" exercise that was his immature way of "getting my comeuppance."

- His three adult daughters and their mother, from whom he is divorced, all loved the recounting, he said.
- "It was a little sketchy for (them) at first, because it was a shocker," he added, noting they expressed joy at forgotten memories and wonder over life details they never knew.
- "It was an outpouring for me, in my narcissistic writer's bubble. It was an empathetic kindness that I hadn't felt for a long time, because I laid myself out there.
- "That was the nicest part about it. Even my ex-wife said, 'Oh, I get you now. I understand that.'"

3 songs for the weekend

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

And now for something completely different: Take one angry rock song, one glittery indie tune and follow with an ancient melody.

Cry Murder/ Sumo Cyco

Remember Skye Sweetnam? Sweet no longer, this is fierce female-fronted aggro-rock from Bolton, Ont. Imagine a very, very, VERY angry Gwen Stefani.

Into the Wild/ The Modern Hearts

This Toronto group won the Breaking Bands competition at Kitchener's Big Rock Fest last Friday. Anthemic songs that straddle the spaces between Ben Folds Five, Journey and even Queen.

Some Kind of Hymn/An Ancient Syrian

A professor of Assyriology at the University of California figured out how to turn cuneiforms on a clay tablet into modern musical notation, thus rendering them playable. This song is 3,400 years old, making it slightly older than anything in the Jagger/ Richards canon.

See that symbol? It means you can scan this image with your Metro News app to listen to Alan's recommended songs this week.

Video game review

Name. Magic 2015

For. iPad/PC/Xbox/Android

Rated. 9+

This worthy adaptation of the popular card game captures the rhythm and timing of real life play where you never feel rushed making a decision, yet events pass quickly. Engaging campaigns have stories supported by movies and decks built around different mechanics, not just colours, with subtle visual effects adding excitement, but never taking away from the beautiful artwork. Thankfully, booster packs are unlocked for free and it's the campaigns that cost money. You're not feeding an addiction this way, but buying expansions for a truly engaging game experience. KRIS ABEL

Cattrall makes comedy out of crisis

Mid-life misadventure. Kim Cattrall tackles the uncomfortable issues of aging in her new series, Sensitive Skin

scene@metronews.ca

Years before Kim Cattrall found international stardom as Samantha Jones, the brash best friend of Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte on Sex and the City, she learned a valuable lesson from a Hollywood legend. The 24-year-old actress was starring opposite Jack Lemmon in Tribute, a film version of the Broadway show that earned Lemmon a Tony nomination.

Lemmon had dozens of credits, including classics like Some like It Hot and The Apartment under his belt and two Oscars on his mantelpiece at home.

"How do you have longevity?" she asked the veteran actor.

"Take things that scare the pants off you," he replied.

It's advice she took to heart, particularly when approaching her new project, Sensitive Skin for HBO Canada.

"I think for me to bring this story to North America was the scariest thing," she says. "Hanging in there and really trusting my instincts because I doubted them sometimes. I put it on the shelf and I walked away but I kept coming back and I think the thing that kept me coming back was the fear of it.

"I could go on playing Samantha for the rest of my life but I wouldn't be very happy. I wouldn't be advancing in any way. This was really hard sometimes and it did scare me daily on the set. I never had children but I can imagine it's like having a child, or going through the gestation period. Instead of nine months it was almost nine years and you go through periods of real doubt and self-doubt."

Don McKellar and Kim Cattrall star as a couple trying to stave off their midlife crisis in Sensitive Skin. HBO CANADA

Returning to television for the first time since Sex and the City, Cattrall plays Davina, a woman on the verge of a mid-life crisis who, along with her husband Al (Don McKellar), shakes the cobwebs off her suburban life by moving downtown.

"It's the change of the guard, isn't it? I'm starting to play characters who are of a certain age and it is a feeling of, 'Am I really ready for this?' Holding onto yesterday instead of embracing whatever this is," she says.

The show not only focuses on Davina and Al — "One of the things I'm most proud of is that you really believe Don and I are a couple," she says. — but also Toronto, the city they call home. She credits McKellar, who also directed the series, with capturing the look and feel of Hogtown.

"He's made Toronto look like the city it is," she says. "Which is very difficult to capture. Because he has lived there his whole life, we were shooting in neighbourhoods the crew didn't even know about. It's so diverse. The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a midlife crisis too."

Series premiere

Sensitive Skin premieres Sunday on HBO Canada at 8 p.m. ET/MT.

Sheryl Crow having trouble finding an equal when it comes to marriage material

Sheryl Crow

Sheryl Crow likes to be extra-sure before jumping into anything, which is why she's been in no rush to walk down the aisle.

"It's better to have three broken engagements than three divorces," she tells Good Housekeeping, poking fun at her own dating history.

So far as we know, she's only ever been engaged to Lance Armstrong, but she's also dated the likes of Eric Clapton and Owen Wilson.

"I had always gone out with guys who were highly successful, which would seem like it would put me at an equal level," she explains to the magazine. "But what ends up happening is that one of you becomes smaller — and it was always me. It's always the woman. I mean, I don't know if it's always the woman, but I do think that sometimes in order for one person's light to shine, everyone else has to dim theirs."

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

It's not Harry's style to embark on a solo career

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

Calm down, kids. Harry Styles is not leaving One Direction to embark on a solo career. Not yet, at least.

"Harry has no plans to go solo," a source tells Radar Online. "Harry is very reliant on the guys and feels much more secure when with them. He is actually quite timid in person."

That's adorable and all, but now I'm starting to think that there might actually be something to the rumors and that this denial is just a ruse.

After all, the British are masters at self-deprecation, and the more self-effacing they get the less you can believe them.

Like when you offer an Englishman more cake and he says, "Oh, I couldn't possibly"? He could, in fact.

So if this "source" had just left it at Harry being comfortable in a group setting, that would have been fine — and definitely more than a little suggestive. But the whole timid thing?

Red flag, man. He's pulling a Timberlake.

Salad Spotlight.

Metro's week of lightening your plate ends with this seasonal Chicken, Watermelon, Feta and Cucumber Salad, which is perfect for outdoor dining

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Watermelon and feta is always a winning combination.

The interplay of colours, the different textures, and the balance between sweet and salty is perfection.

Add cucumber, chicken and a cocktail for a great start to a relaxing summer afternoon.

Dressing

1. In a bowl, combine mayonnaise, Dijon mustard, white wine vinegar (or rice vinegar). Set aside.

Salad

1. In a large bowl, combine sliced or cubed chicken breast, arugula, diced watermelon, sliced fennel, sliced cucumber, chopped green onions, crumbled feta cheese, and sea salt and pepper. Divide the Chicken, Watermelon, Feta and Cucumber salad among four plates.

2. Drizzle with the vinaigrette over the salad. Season with salt and pepper.

In a wine rut? Do you keep pouring the same old pinot grigio or merlot? Well, it's time to start drinking outside the box and experiment with a new grape.

While there are hundreds of berries in the naked vineyard, a number are just shy of mass market popularity, which makes them ripe for discovery.

I'm thinking white fruit like verdejo and grüner veltliner, and reds like grenache (a.k.a. garnacha) and tempranillo.

Tempranillo is arguably wine's most stealth grape, having slipped under the radar of most Canadian consumers for decades.

A superstar in its native Spain, if you've had a red from its Rioja region you may have a taste for it.

Campo Viejo's 2011 Tempranillo ($14.45 - $19.79) used to be called Crianza (a nod to the juice having spent at least one year aging in oak barrels). Smooth and medium-bodied, it shows classic red berry and cherry flavours along with a lingering impression of cedar, spice and leather. Try with grilled burgers, paella and meat-laden pizzas. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Wicked

Starting on July 23rd, Calgary is in for some wicked fun with the return of the smash-success Broadway show Wicked. Described as a cultural phenomenon, this is the tale of a girl with green skin who grows up a little misunderstood. For all of you who remember watching the Wizard of Oz as a kid, this is kind of like a prequel to everything that happened before Dorothy and Toto made it over the rainbow. You'll love the back-story on how the Wicked Witch of the West rose to such notoriety. For tickets and show times at the Jubilee Auditorium you can visit the website: calgary.broadway.com

Motion Notion

This festival is a great time if electronic music and camping are your thing. Motion Notion takes place from the 24th to the 28th of July in Golden, British Columbia, which is roughly three hours from Calgary. The 2014 line up includes music from Stickybuds, Nick Thayer and the Funk Hunters. There will also be tons of great artists, food vendors and theatrical performances happening throughout the weekend. Getting back to nature has never been so much fun. For tickets, camping information and directions visit: motionnotion.com.

Stargazing

From July 24th to 26th you can do a little stargazing at the Rothney Astrophysical Observatory that's located in Priddis (only a short drive from Calgary). If conditions are good then you'll have the exciting opportunity to see a variety of nebula, clusters and other random phenomenon associated with the Milky Way. These are very informal evenings, and while there won't be any lecture during viewings, the staff will still be referencing points of interest in the night sky. The observatory is open from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. and admission is by donation. ucalgary.ca/rao

Taste of Okotoks

On July 26th, Okotoks is hosting a quaint little foodie festival — a perfect option if you're in need of ideas for spending a Saturday out of town. The Taste of Okotoks coincides with the town's weekly summer street festival so you can also see what's on display at the market and hear some live music as you sample delicious foods, drinks and desserts. If you're planning on attending, the event will be on from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. okotoks.ca.

Take Off Your Clothes

That's right. Now that we have your attention, we can tell you about an unusual but totally fun event happening at the Sheraton on July 26th. This is a high-end clothes-swapping event where in exchange for some of your fancier second-hand items and the price of admission ($15) you can shop to your heart's content. In order to participate you'll want to read through the website as the instructions for what can be exchanged and when you have to supply your own items are quite specific. zvents.com

Broken Bells

On August 6th, Broken Bells will be playing at the Jack Singer Concert Hall. Even if you've never heard this duo, you still have time to give their music a listen and buy a ticket. Simply put, Broken Bells is made up of two guys with a whole lot of talent. Danger Mouse (a.k.a. Brian Burton) has produced albums for everyone from Norah Jones and Beck to the Black Keys and Jack White, while James Mercer has had a very successful run with the indie rock band known as The Shins. ‘It’s the field of unknown’

A guessing game.
Stampeders visit the winless Tiger-Cats who will be missing several key starters

Stampeders’ head coach John Hufnagel yells at his players during a game against the Alouettes on June 28 at McMahon Stadium. He has praised the Tiger-Cats’ ability to adapt to situations like the one they will face Friday when they host the Stampeders, missing several key starters. TODD KOROL/GETTY IMAGES

The unbeaten Calgary Stampeders appear to have a favourable matchup this Friday when they host a winless Hamilton Tiger-Cats team missing its starting quarterback, but middle linebacker Juwan Simpson is taking nothing for granted.

“Everybody asks us if we’re going to take this game lightly and we can’t because it’s the field of unknown,” said Simpson in regards to the Ticats (0-2), who will be without several key starters, including quarterback Zach Collaros.

Jeremiah Masoli will make his first career CFL start at quarterback for the Ticats in place of Collaros, who’s out of the lineup with head and back injuries after being flattened by a helmet hit to the chin by Eskimos linebacker Odell Willis in the second quarter of Hamilton’s 28-24 road loss to Edmonton on July 4.

“I don’t feel like I’m just being thrown in there,” said Masoli, who’s in his second CFL season. “I’ve been preparing for this for a while now. I feel prepared and confident.”

Hamilton coach Kent Austin has confidence that Masoli can get the job done.

“He’s excited,” Austin said. “We have really high expectations for our quarterbacks like other teams do, and Jeremiah knows that and understands that and he embraces that. It’s not like he hasn’t been in big situations before. He’s a pretty laid-back player and has a great perspective. He’s very endearing to his teammates.”

Masoli took over for Collaros in Edmonton and completed five of 15 passes for 118 yards and a touchdown to go with three turnovers — an interception and two fumbles.

“He had a tough outing, but he’s a very accurate thrower, can move in the pocket, has good vision down the field, can extend plays, all the things you want in a quarterback,” said Calgary coach and general manager John Hufnagel. “They do have changes, especially at the quarterback position, but they have done creative things with their quarterbacks in the past and they’ve substituted in and out.”

Both teams have key injuries as Hamilton will be without linebackers Simoni Lawrence and Rico Murray, along with left tackle Joel Figueroa (all lower body), while running back Jon Cornish is still out of Calgary’s lineup with a concussion along with linebacker Deron Mayo (groin strain), defensive back Keon Raymond (thigh bruise) and receiver Maurice Price (broken hand).

Week 4 pick

Tiger-Cats at Stampeders, Friday, 8 p.m., TSN

Calgary starter Bo Levi Mitchell looks to improve to 6-0 and move closer to the CFL record for consecutive wins to begin a career, which is seven held by former Stampeder Jeff Garcia. Mitchell was 16 of 24 passing for 267 yards and four TDs in last weekend’s win in Toronto despite the absence of running back Jon Cornish and slotback Nik Lewis (both concussion symptoms). Defensively, the Stamps were solid even after losing linebacker Deron Mayo and defensive back Keon Raymond to injuries. If a veteran like Ricky Ray has trouble scoring against Calgary, how will youngster Jeremiah Masoli fare? Masoli gets the start with Ticats incumbent Zach Collaros ailing. Pick: Calgary.

Willy kept under wraps as Bombers suffer first defeat

The Eskimos' Almondo Sewell wraps up Blue Bombers' quarterback Drew Willy at Investors Group Field on Thursday night. Willy and the Bombers' offence were held in check in a 26-3 loss, the team's first defeat of the season. Edmonton improved to 4-0 while Winnipeg slipped to 3-1. Burris not too old for another first

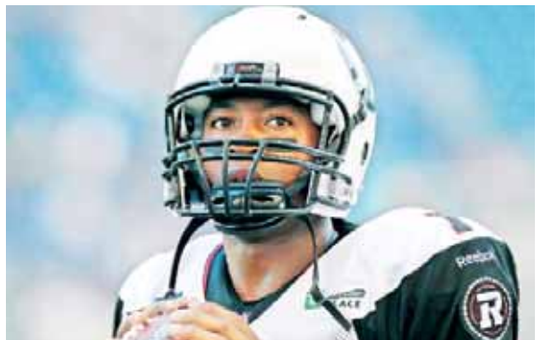
Redblacks' home debut. 39-year-old veteran QB says he's honoured 'to break ground' in Ottawa

Henry Burris boasts an impressive CFL resume.

Over 15 seasons, he's twice won a league championship, been named a Grey Cup and CFL MVP and is one of just five players ever to surpass the 50,000-yard passing plateau.

But even with 17 years of pro football under his belt — he also played in the NFL with Green Bay and Chicago — the 39-year-old Texan will experience a career first Friday night when he leads the expansion Ottawa Redblacks (0-2) into their first-ever game at TD Place Stadium against the Toronto Argonauts (1-2).

"I've never been in this position before," Burris said following Thursday's practice. "I played in the first Monday-night game following 9/11 (Green Bay's 37-0 win over Washington on Sept. 24, 2001), I've played in Grey Cups and those were some pretty emotional times for me.



A sold-out crowd at TD Place Stadium will be behind Henry Burris and the Redblacks when they take on the Argos on Friday. MARIANNE HELM/GETTY IMAGES

"But I can just imagine how emotional and how much energy is going to be in this stadium and this entire city. I know this fan base has waited since 2005 to have a true home game and a true home stadium. It's an honour to be here and able to be part of this team to break ground as far as getting this organization and city back into football."

Not since the former Renegades in November 2005 has a CFL team played a home game in Ottawa, and the city hasn't celebrated a Grey Cup winner since 1976 when Tony Gabriel's historic TD catch rallied the Rough Riders to a thrilling 23-20 victory over Saskatchewan. But a sellout gathering of 24,000 will be on hand for the Redblacks' inaugural home game.

"It's a big deal, and we've been waiting for this day for a long time," said Ottawa head coach Rick Campbell. "We've had a bunch of firsts over the last several months as far as what's gone on with our franchise, and (Thursday) will be a big night and we're definitely proud of it."

With Ottawa's first home game generating such a huge buzz — a pep rally was held Thursday at city hall — the Redblacks will definitely have the home-field advantage as they search for their first-ever win. However, that also means there'll be a lot of pressure on them to perform well.

"Hopefully it's loud and exciting," Argos' head coach Scott Milanovich said. "Our guys are looking forward to playing in the new stadium being kind of the first show in town."

Sources: Sabres lock Ennis into five-year pact

The Sabres re-signed centre Tyler Ennis on Thursday to a five-year contract worth $23 million, addressing one of the final pieces of their off-season rebuilding plan.

Two people familiar with the agreement revealed the terms to The Associated Press. They spoke on the condition of anonymity because the Sabres referred to the contract only as a multi-year deal. Ennis will make $7.3 million this season, $4.75 million in 2015-16, and $3.65 million in each of the final three seasons of the contract, one of the people said.

Ennis was a restricted free agent after the Sabres retained his rights by tendering him an offer last month. THE ASSOCIATED PRESSV

Kristoff takes Stage 12, Nibali keeps overall lead

Alexander Kristoff of Norway, in a solo show of opportunistic racing, won the 12th stage of the Tour de France in a sprint as Vincenzo Nibali kept the yellow jersey for a 10th day on Thursday.

After hitching a ride behind the back wheel of Italian sprinter Matteo Trentin, Kristoff powered out of the barrelling pack and beat Peter Sagan of Slovakia, who was second, by nearly a bike length, while Arnaud Demare of France was third. The pack overtook a pair of breakaway riders with less than seven kilometres to go.

Kristoff, who won the Milan-San Remo race this year, pointed to the sky and shouted as he crossed the line. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

World Cup. Ref reveals Kramer was disoriented

Germany midfielder Christoph Kramer was disoriented and confused after taking a heavy blow to the head early in the World Cup final, according to the match's referee.

"Shortly after the blow, Kramer came to me asking, 'Ref, is this the final?'" Nicola Rizzoli told the Gazzetta dello Sport on Thursday. "I thought he was joking and made him repeat the question and then he said, 'I need to know if this is really the final.' When I said, 'Yes,' he concluded, 'Thanks, it was important to know that.'"

Rizzoli said he let Germany midfielder Bastian Schweinsteiger know about the exchange during Sunday's game but Kramer continued playing for 14 minutes after the collision with Argentina's Ezequiel Garay. He was replaced in the 31st after slumping to the ground with a suspected concussion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

McIlroy looking to end string of frightful Fridays

Golf. After starting strong, 'Boy Wonder' must prove he can follow up strong at British Open

Rory McIlroy had everything go his way Thursday in the British Open.

A lovely summer day in England with abundant sunshine and minimal wind allowed him to attack Royal Liverpool. He made half his six birdies on the par 5s and kept bogeys off his card. And on the day Tiger Woods made a promising return, McIlroy took the lead with a 6-under 66, his best score in nearly two years at a major.

Now if he can only find a way to get to the weekend.

McIlroy either set himself up for a good run at the claret jug or another dose of Friday failures. In what already has been an unusual year for golf, no trend is more mysterious than Boy Wonder going overnight from awesome to awful.

Six times in his past eight tournaments, he has had a nine-hole score of 40 or higher on Friday that has taken him out of the mix.

"It's not like I've shot good scores in first rounds and haven't backed them up before," McIlroy said. "I'm used to doing that. I just haven't done it recently. We'll see what tomorrow brings and what weather it is and try and handle it as best I can.

"Hopefully, it's just one of those things and I'm able to turn it around tomorrow."

Woods also would like to keep moving in the right direction. He got off to a troubling start with two quick bogeys, nearly made another one on the fourth hole and then looked like a 14-time major champion when he ran off five birdies in six holes toward the end of his round for a 69.

Not bad for a guy who had back surgery March 31, who started taking full swings only a month ago and who had not played in a major in 11 months.

World No. 1 Adam Scott finished with a 68, but was the only player in the top 10 who played in the afternoon when the wind made Hoylake tougher. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Singleton

Qualifier relishes Open experience

On a typical Thursday at 10:30 a.m., John Singleton would be making paints and varnishes in a resin factory. Maybe driving around in a forklift truck.

Not this Thursday morning.

On this one-off occasion, Singleton was 10 minutes down the road at the British Open at Royal Liverpool, whipping up the crowd on the first tee before taking the biggest — and most nerve-racking — shot of his life.

"I just wanted to enjoy it," the 30-year-old qualifier said with a huge grin.

Singleton wound up shooting a 6-over 78, having been even par after 11 holes.

"I shot 6 over, it feels like I shot 6 under," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Even an ambitious Aries needs to take it easy once in a while and the planets are now urging you to relax. Spend time with your loved ones today. They would like to see more of you.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Your task for the next 24 hours is o release all that pent-up energy that's inside you in a way that does you good while not harming other people.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Anything of a creative nature will go well for you today – and you could make money from it too. Your number one aim is to enjoy what you're doing.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
According to the planets you're not in the mood to make much of an effort, but that's OK. There is no cosmic law that says you must be busy at all times.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Like everyone else, you have weaknesses and the planets warn that one of them — pride most likely — could be your undoing. Just because everything is going well does not mean you can let down your guard.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
If you need assistance today ask for it, because you don't have to do it on your own. You have friends who will be more than happy to help you out.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Decide which is more important: love or ambition. You can, of course, have both but if you are wise you will put personal happiness first and professional success second.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You seem to be pushing yourself harder than ever but will achieve more in the long-term if you balance your physical and mental efforts with plenty of relaxation.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
There is no need to impose deadlines on what you're doing. The more pressure you put on yourself, the more likely it is you will make a mistake.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You are in a romantic mood and that's good. The only danger is that you will put the object of your affection on too high a pedestal and feel devastated when they tumble.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
A loved one will ask you to cover up for them today and you'll be happy to do so. You don't want to see them get hurt but shouldn't they be learning from their own mistakes?

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You will feel affectionate today. It won't last, but while it does see how many good deeds you can do for loved ones.
